NEW PAINTINGS

From start to finish, I love painting with you in mind, even though I am a purist painter at heart: one who paints what they wish no matter who sees it. I have listened and through your purchases over the years know that some love oil/acrylic and yet others my pastel pieces — I am delivering. While painting what I see as valuable in the landscape: (whether floral, architectural or figurative art), I am am trying to satisfy your vision and those new to fine art collecting. Additionally, with my roots in portraiture, for a limited time, I am taking commissions once again in this genre. Further, to view my newest landscapes visit my Web site to see twenty five new paintings in detail at LDianeJohnson.com

NEW GALLERY PARTNER

Virginia

It is rare to secure galleries at the rate that I am experiencing in these difficult economical times. Yet, many still seek my work on your behalf. I am thankful and pleased to present my newest partner, Corse Gallery in Jacksonville, Florida. If you are in this area please view four new paintings and those of colleague artists you may wish to entertain collecting. I will also be offering a plein-air painting workshop at Corse, in the Spring of 2010.

PAINTING LIVE

I recently had the pleasure and honor of painting by invitation in two locations. One, at The Hamptons, a new exclusive private development near Chapel

North Carolina

Hill, NC, with properties available on a historic landmark site. The second, in Raleigh's historic City Market and Moore Square [shown on Page 1.] Both were wonderful opportunities to capture places that were of major importance to their communities' heritage.

LOOKING BACK

Moment in Maine, is a large piece created in 1987, from a vacation in the Northeast. My husband and I both halted at this spot while dashing to the airport. It has been in a corporate collection for years, but is one of my favorite painting memories. The sun drenched footbridge, deep blue pond water and lively greenery made for a grand experience. See more about this and other pieces in the growing Archives section of my Web site. While not all sold paintings are in the archives yet, your painting(s) may even be there:)

COMING UP

Georgia

For the past month, and continuing through the Summer, I will be painting in a wide variety of locations including, Georgia, New Jersey, North Carolina, as well as Florida, California and European scenes in the studio. Additionally, I will be participating in two painting events while filming art instruction DVDs in between.

As mentioned in my last newsletter my second Monet's garden show of pieces created from my trips to Giverny is in the works too. Will keep you informed!

Thanks as always for your continued support and encouragement!

Diane
